

• So, where are you from?

I was born in Alcalá de Henares and I have lived here since then.

• What kind of things are you into?

I am into robotics and swimming, I love swimming and try to ~~go~~ go to the pool whenever I have a break

• What do you do for work?

I am not working yet, but I would like to do it in something related with robots and artificial intelligence.

• What's the most-used emoji on your phone?

Without a doubt my most-used emoji is the one which is laughing and has two tears on the sides

• Got any travel plans coming up?

Right now I don't have any travel plans but like almost anyone I would like to travel a lot and see the world.

• What's been on your mind lately?

This last few months my biggest concern has been the dead line of a project I've been working on.

• What are you afraid of?

Like most fears mine is kind of silly, I really cannot stand any mosquito or flying bug.

• What do you not give a damn about?

I do not know, I think I give at least some importance to everything.

• What did you get up to in August?

During summer I have built my own website (<http://mrbielgrin.com>) and also created a few mobile apps.

• If you could spend a day in someone else's shoes, whose shoes would you choose? Why?

I would choose Tom Ford's shoes, I think he sees the world in a completely different and beautiful way and I would like to experiment that in first person.
