

- I frown on people that would accept a bribe, things like that go against my principles.
- Some wild pranksters trashed my friend's car by throwing it into a bonfire.
- There is an algorithm called merge-sort that sorts numbers by gathering them into sorted couples and stitching them in the correct order
- The deceased morphed into dust and went away with the wind.
- There was a famine in the village because the bags in which they store the grain broke apart because they were made out of patchwork of cloth.
- The discussion ended with an outright negative to the proposal.